Workshops

Special sessions will involve hands-on activities and workshops in the Visual Arts, Music, Theatre and Literary Arts. You will be asked to choose two sessions from the following options:
This tutorial will take you through the process of creating this webpage using the Bricolage content management system.

Information Sessions

Participants will learn about Adams State College admissions procedures, financial aid, major requirements, extracurricular activities and clubs at the information sessions. There will be plenty of opportunity to ask questions.

Campus Tour

You will have a chance to see the campus and meet current students and faculty members, as well as meet a lot of new people.

How Much Does it Cost?

The only costs of ARTS EXTRAVAGANZA are those associated with getting here. Adams State College will provide all materials needed for the workshops, all meals and entrance fees for events.

Depending on the number of participants you may be asked to pay a small fee if you spend the night.

All participants will receive a T-Shirt too.

Please be aware of the following:

1. For best results, maximize your screen.
2. Use the playback control at the top of the slide to pause the movie at any time.
3. At times, you may need to scroll the screen up and down (or slide to side) in order to see the entire slide.
4. When you see a "next" button, the movie will pause until you press it.

This is the Bricolage workspace. Your workflow will be listed in the left box on the left-hand side.

As you can see, I have many workflows, but you'll most likely only have two (a workflow for web pages and a workflow for web media).
We'll be working in the Arts Extravaganza (or AE) workspace.

First, let's make sure that our media elements are uploaded (see the "Uploading Media" tutorial for information on how to do this).

If possible, always upload your images, pdfs, and other media elements before you create your web pages.

Select Active Media under AE MEDIA to view uploaded media.

Now let's go back to the AE Workflow to create our webpage.
Select New Story under AE. Bricolage refers to web pages as "stories."
Make your title as clear as possible.

My title indicates that this is the main webpage for the Arts Extravaganza website.

Don't use a "slug" in your main web page.

(Slugs are used to identify sub-pages, and we'll get to those later.)

"Story Type" will be "General Document."
That's all we need to create the "Properties" for our main webpage.

Click "Create"
Now we're in the "Story Profile" for our main webpage. Let's give Bricolage some more information about it.

So now we have a header and a sub-header.

Let's continue building the page by adding an image.
This image will appear on the right hand side of the screen. Text will be next to it on the left.

In other words, we need a “Right Justified Related Media” element.
This is the "Element Profile" for the "Right Justified Related Media." We'll add the image and the text here.

Search by the first couple words of the category in which you placed your media.

Media for the Arts Extravaganza would be located in [artsextravaganza.png].

So I'll search in larts.
Here they are...

Select the check box for the image you want.
And now click "Checkout"
Now that you've related the image, click "Save and Stay."

But before we go any further, let's distinguish "Save and Stay" from "Stay."

When you create elements in Bricolage, you create layers through which you can move by using the "Save" and "Stay and Stay" features.

Use "Save and Stay" when you want to save your work and remain on the same page (or layer) in Bricolage.

Use "Save" when you want to save your work and go back to a "higher" layer.
Now let’s preview our work. Previewing is important because it updates the test server with the pages we’re working on.

Preview by clicking the URI

URL: http://aexample.com/
Writing files to "XHTML" Output Channel.

Distributing files.

NOTE: You may get an error message the first time you publish a page or an image. Just ignore it, close the browser and preview again.

That should take care of it.
Back in Bricolage, we need to go to the "Main Story Profile" and add some other elements to this webpage. Click Save to get out of the "Right Justified Media Element" profile.

Slide 119 - Slide 119

The image shows a screenshot of a software interface, possibly for content management. It includes sections for titles, descriptions, and related media, with options to edit or bulk edit. There are also categories and lists with specific details.

The content preview includes a header for "Arts Extravaganza: September 30 - Oct 1" and a subheader for "What Will You Do at ARTS EXTRAVAGANZA?!" The right header is "Experience the Arts". A paragraph describes special sessions involving hands-on activities and workshops in the Visual Arts, Music, Theatre, and Literary Arts. You will be asked to choose two sessions from the following options:

- Pinhole Photography
  - List: [Edit or Bulk Edit]

Categories include "Arts Extravaganza/artsextravaganza" and other related entries.

The interface also has options to reorder and delete items.

Now another paragraph underneath the header...
Earlier, we created a "right justified related media" element (an image on the right hand side of the page).

Now let's add a "left justified related media" element (an image on the left hand side of the page).
Here's the "Element Profile" for the "left justified related media" element.
First, let's add a header for the text that will go on the right side of the image.
Now let's place a couple paragraphs below the header and to the right of the image.
The only costs of ARTS EXTRAVAGANZA are those associated with getting here. Adams State College will provide all materials needed for the workshops, all meals and entrance fees for events.

The image shows a screenshot of a software interface, possibly a content management system. The interface is displaying a story profile with various metadata fields such as ID, Story Type Element, Source, Priority, Title, and Description. The system also includes date and time information, likely for versioning or publishing purposes. The interface is open, showing a view of a story titled "Arts Extravaganza - Index" with details including the source as Adams State College and a description of the story. The interface elements are labeled with terms like "Workflow", "My Workspace", and "AE Media", indicating a structured environment for managing digital content. The visual representation includes a URL and a bulk edit option for content management, suggesting a user-friendly interface for modifying and publishing stories.
