Taos Watercolor Workshop

Taos Pueblo Shadow Patterns—Pat Wolf

"Untitled"—John Wolfe

"Wednesday in Taos" 22 x 30—Mary Baldrica
The week-long workshop (June 10-16, 2007) is designed to offer instruction comprised of demonstration, mini-workshops, critique, and on-site painting experience.

The beginning student will be involved with the materials, techniques, and potential of water media. Advanced students will be provided with the opportunity to develop new directions or refine their own painting approach. Students may elect to work alone or with a group of their choice.

Workshop students will stay at the popular Sagebrush Inn and will have access to many interesting galleries and craft shops. Because of the limited accommodations and class size, applications will be accepted in the order in which they are received.

Two semester hours of undergraduate or graduate college credit can be earned.

COST: Room and board; $449 double, per person/ $579 private; tuition: Colorado resident and non-Colorado resident, $300. Payment of tuition will constitute the pre-registration fee and should be sent as soon as possible.

More information about this exciting workshop will be sent upon receipt of pre-registration fee or by writing: Judy Jones, Art Department, Adams State College, 208 Edgemont Blvd. Alamosa, CO 81102 719.587.7823.
