This Day in ASC History
August 30, 1968 – Sprinkler system

INSTALLING SPRINKLING SYSTEMS - Adams State College personnel are busy installing grass watering systems in three different campus areas. This particular scene is in front of the newly constructed Education-Social Studies Building. The other two areas where grass will soon be growing due to the installation of watering systems are around the Leon Memorial Building and in the area of the older portion of the college. (Courier Photo)