The Adams State Teachers College is now in its seventh year of active service. It presents an honest effort to develop an institution in which students and faculty are engaged in a joint program to make an earnest inquiry concerning truth; to discover and set up in the atmosphere of learning and in the spirit of a democratic society those essential elements of life which tend to make the individual a capable member of a vocation or profession and a worthy citizen. Attention is given to quality of scholarship, development of personality, development of an attitude of inquiry and investigation, and to the development of personal initiative. The college program, the personal attention and direction given to students, the plan of administration to studies, and the relation of studies to a better understanding of life and to the development of appreciations should present a distinct challenge to the student honestly searching for truth in theory and practice. Our student life is wholesome and democratic. Students are encouraged to live clean, wholesome and responsible lives, sanely tempered with buoyant recreation and void of unreasonable and damaging dissipations. Personal judgment in light of truth is challenged.

The work of the College is organized under the following divisional groups:
1. Division of Education and Psychology, providing training in the essential skills, techniques and practices of teaching.
2. Division of Language and Literature – English, Foreign Language, Speech and Dramatic Art.
3. Division of Science and Mathematics – Biology, Physics, Chemistry, and the usual college mathematics program.

Opportunities are presented as follows:
1. Preparation for teaching – its central function.
2. A standard college course leading to the Bachelor of Arts Degree.
   - 1 and 2 give a college education plus equipment for one of life’s great professions.
   - The college degree of A.B. indicates an experience not be found elsewhere. This college gives careful attention to the quality of content of this experience.
3. Foundational work for other standard professions. Most professional schools require a year or more of academic work before admittance is granted. This basic work may be done at the Adams State Teachers College.

Admission – a standard high school training or the plain equivalent.

Fees and Expenses—During the fall, winter and spring quarters the fees are as follows: matriculation fees, $5.00, paid only once at first entrance; Registration fees, $15.00 each quarter; Associated Students and Faculty Activity Fee (fixed by the Association), $4.00 each quarter. A higher registration fees is charged for the summer quarter. Individual lessons in music may be secured at very reasonable additional rates.

Organizations—The college encourages the organization of groups with definite objectives growing more or less specifically out of the activities rightfully sponsored by the college, provided such organizations do not detract from or interfere with the splendid democratic spirit which has developed and which the college wishes to strengthen.

The College Ideals. Certain controlling principles are set up for the constructive guidance of all persons connected with the Institution:
A. Loyalty to truth and honesty; to the best interests of one’s fellow-worker whether student or instructor; to the college as it attempts honest and progressive service; to society which provides opportunity through its institutions.
B. Cooperation in the accomplishment of good, in frank and open discussion on the basis of fundamental principle; in the accomplishment of all worthy factors of the college program and the elimination of unworthy and inefficient factors.
C. The discovery and expression of individuality through the development of personality and growth; through the expansion of scholarship; through the cultivation of initiative in all worthy enterprises.
